Hughes, David, “Drill, Baby, Drill,” Post Carbon Institute, 2013. The most comprehensive publicly available analysis to date of the prospects for shale gas and fracked oil in the United States. Explanation of why 100 years of natural gas is a myth.

Ingraffea, Anthony R., “Gangplank to a Warm Future,” New York Times, July 28, 2013. Article explaining why natural gas is not a “bridge” fuel to a clean fuel future, written by a Cornell professor of engineering who has also worked on fracking technology.

Romm, Joseph J, “Methane Leaks Wipe Out Any Climate Benefit of Fracking, Satellite Observations Confirm.” Climate Progress (thinkprogress.org), October 22, 2014. Joe Romm is a Senior Fellow at the Center for American Progress, where he founded their climate blog, Climate Progress, part of their Think Progress website. He is also a physicist and climate expert.

Triple Divide, directed by J.B. Pribanic. Public Herald, 2013. A documentary examining multiple impacts of fracking in Pennsylvania, including water use, the effects of chemicals on people and livestock, and the frustrations of resisting.
