Statement on March 15 Climate Strike

Mary Jo Klingel and Shelley Tanenbaum
Quaker Earthcare Witness applauds students who are striking today, March 15, calling on all of us to take significant action on climate change. These students say, "We may be skipping school but we are not failing school, adults are both skipping the planet and failing their future and ours." It is time to listen to our scientists, our activists and our youth, and commit to restoring the planet for these youth who are marching and for all life inhabiting our Earth.

What are Quaker youth doing about climate? Read it here.
Mary Jo Klingel, Clerk, and Shelley Tanenbaum, General Secretary, Quaker Earthcare Witness